AMERICAN ORGANS
MANUFACTORY,
Tremont, opposite Waltham St.,
BOSTON, MASS.

THE AMERICAN ORGAN makes Home Attractive, and refines and elevates the minds of all. Beautiful in its appearance and effects.
Seventeen---17---First Premiums were awarded to the American Organs IN THE MONTH OF OCTOBER, 1865, over all Competitors, at different State and County Fairs.
First Premium awarded to the American Organs at the Great New York State Agricultural Fair at Rochester, September 1864, over the Whole catalogue exhibited by the most Celebrated Makers.
THE AMERICAN ORGANS are the ONLY REAL REED ORGANS now before the public.—The only Organ having a REVERBERATING SOUND BOX or WIND CHEST—which has the same important part to perform as the Sounding Board has in a Piano Forte (to give body and resonance of tone) and without which the Organ becomes merely a Melodeon in an Organ case. The American Organs not only have the Wind Chest, or Sound-Box but have the large Organ Bellows, giving power and great steadiness of tone. These with their extreme fine voicing of the Reeds and perfecting of the tone, make them the MOST PERFECT ORGAN KNOWN. Then, in finoness of workmanship, finish of action and case, they excel all others. These great improvements and superiority of tone and workmanship of the AMERICAN ORGANS place them in the first rank as the best, and command a higher price than any other reed instrument in the market. A careful examination of them, in comparison with others, will quickly show their superiority.
Special attention is called to the style of AMERICAN ORGAN, No. 17, containing the Super-Octave Coupler and Sub-Bass. FOR CHURCHES in want of a powerful instrument, whose means are limited its price renders it very desirable.
EVERY ORGAN IS WARRANTED TO PROVE SATISFACTORY.
THE AMERICAN ORGANS all have the Reverberating Sound-Box, or Wind-Chest, and are finished in the highest style of art, in Rosewood, Jet Walnut, and Oak finish, richly Varnished and Polished, or in Smooth Oil Finish, forming elegant pieces of Furniture for the Parlor or Boudoir; and the Oak and Walnut especially adapted for Churches, Lecture and Lodge Rooms.
THE AMERICAN ORGANS are all finished with our new PATENT improvements, containing the improved Knee Swell, Double Bellows, two Blow Pedals, and TREMOLO found in no other instrument.
NEW STYLES OF CASES,
Richly Finished and Highly Ornamented.

MUTTY'S
Friction Feed Roller,
FOR CIRCULAR SAWS.
PATENTED JANUARY 23d, 1866.
THIS INVENTION is applicable to all Circular Saws provided with stationary tables and used for re-sawing lumber.
It reduces the labor of sawing one half, and fifty per cent. more lumber can be sawed with, than without its use. It is applied without change of existing machinery; is not liable to get out of repair, and not expensive to apply.
It has been in practical use on the Penobscot river for one year, where the above facts have been fully and satisfactorily demonstrated, as is shown by the certificates of master mill-men, machinists, owners and operators of mills appended hereto.
The undersigned have for the past season witnessed the practical use of MUTTY'S FEED ROLLER in re-sawing lumber, and we cheerfully recommend it as a practical, economical, and labor-saving invention, designed to come into general use in all cases where lumber is re-sawed upon stationary tables. We are fully satisfied from our own observation that the saving effected, and extra amount cut, by its use, is fully as large as the estimate above given.

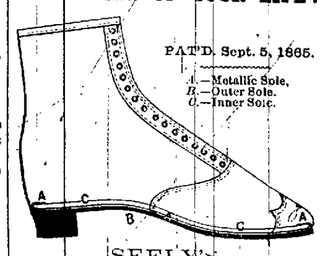
TAKE CARE OF YOUR LIFE!



SEELY'S
Patent Metallic Sole.
A NEW INVENTION.
WETTING THE FEET is the most prolific cause of disease and death known to humanity. It is almost sure to bring on a cold; and colds, neglected, and often when not neglected, lead to fevers or to coughs and fatal consumptions. It is in recognition of this truth that the inventive talent of the country has for years been devising some method, or attempting to devise it, for keeping the feet dry, and yet that should not give inconvenience to the wearer. Rubber shoes, in one form or another, have hitherto been our reliance; but it is well known, as among their many evils, that while they keep the feet dry from external moisture, they sweat them overmuch, and by thus inducing an undue tenderness increase a susceptibility to colds rather than otherwise.—They are also cumbersome to the feet, and withal are very expensive. The demand is for something that shall make the ordinary Boot and Shoe impervious to water without effecting their elegance or durability, and, if possible, without adding sensibly to the cost of manufacture. These, it will be conceded, are most important features, and we conscientiously affirm that they are absolutely attained in the invention herewith presented to the public.
The invention consists in inserting between the inner and outer sole, when the boot is making, a thin METALLIC PLATE, exceedingly ductile, combining flexibility with toughness, very light, and every way adapted to the end desired, while the additional expense is merely nominal. It furnishes a perfect barrier against the admission of wet or dampness, though the feet may be exposed ever so long upon wet pavements or damp ground.
To ladies and children the METALLIC SOLES will be of incalculable value, as from their habits of life and delicacy of dress, they are particularly exposed to the long train of ills that attend upon an inadequate protection to the feet.
These Soles have already been tried by the best of all tests, ACTUAL USE, and the testimonials to their merits, freely proffered, indicate that they must be speedily and universally adopted by the public. The Patent Metallic Soled Boots and Shoes are being introduced into the leading Boot and Shoe stores throughout the United States, and will supplant all forms of overshoes, except possibly for deep mud and snow, as they become known. Be sure to get them and no other. If your shoemaker does not happen to have them, he can procure them without difficulty. If he will not, then send yourself to the inventor one dollar and thirty cents, and obtain six pair, assorted sizes, with right to use, which will be promptly forwarded by mail or express, pro-paid, and which can be made up by any shoemaker in the country. Agencies will be established in every city and village, and supplied with Soles and proprietary stamps, at schedule prices, and liberal commission allowed on sales. Also General Agencies for States appointed on application, with proper testimonials to the inventor.
Samuel J. Seely,

TESTIMONIALS.
The undersigned have for the past six months worn Boots and Shoes possessing Mr. Seely's METALLIC SOLE, and find them to be an effectual preventive against dampness, and the colds so often taken from damp feet, most gladly do we testify to the perfect efficiency of their service. The Metallic Sole is not only a grand contribution to the cause of general health, but a positive luxury, obviating all necessity of India Rubber shoes, except in muddy weather. All ordinary dampness, and even water upon pavements, is completely foiled of its power of harm by this most simple and useful invention. No one who has once used them will ever be without them again, as they increase the cost of boots and shoes by a sum which is scarcely worth naming, and insure, positively, dry feet, which is reckoned among the first conditions of health and comfort. We heartily commend the "Metallic Sole" to all the sensible.
J. CLEMENT FRENCH,
Pastor Central Cong. Church, Brooklyn.
MARY A. FRENCH.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1865.

SAMUEL J. SEELY, ESQ.:
Dear Sir—In reply to your inquiries regarding your Patent Metallic Sole, I take great pleasure in stating that I had them put in a pair of fine oil skin boots, which I wore the whole of last winter in the wet streets of Albany. I have had them half soled since, and am wearing your Metallic Soles now, with full intention never to be without them. I have not had a wet or damp foot during the whole time I have worn them. I pronounce them the best insole yet made. I am satisfied that no person having once worn them will do without them.—Wishing you the success you deserve for so valuable an invention for the preservation of health,
I remain truly yours,
SAMUEL JEFFERSON,
Contractor, New York.

MR. SAMUEL J. SEELY:
Dear Sir—I take great pleasure in offering my testimony to the usefulness and comfort of your Patent Metallic Sole. I have used a pair of boots for the past seven months, furnished with this Sole, and feel no hesitation in saying that I have never worn shoes that combined so perfectly the desirable qualities of dryness and durability.
EMMA OVERTON, Brooklyn, New York.

S. J. SEELY, Esq.:
Dear Sir—In answer to your request, I am pleased to state that I have manufactured shoes containing your Metallic Sole by machinery. I think them a superior article for keeping the feet dry. In manufacturing them there is no trouble from cutting the thread when sewing, nor any difficulty in putting them in the shoe. Respectfully yours,

BEAUFORT, (N. C.) March 2.

A Hero Again.

From Charleston to Savannah we go by boat; I took the steamer Croton. She is a small steamer without state-rooms or any other accommodations, and at one time was an East River ferry boat. She was heavily loaded with freight, consisting of corn and hay, and when at sea those on board felt anything but comfortable. You can imagine her speed when it took us 24 hours to reach Savannah, a distance of about ninety miles. I am told she was as good as any of the boats plying between these two points. During the trip a little incident occurred worthy of notice. While the boat was receiving freight at the wharf, the regular pilot indulged in too much whiskey, and when the vessel started, as a matter of course he was unable to manage her. The weather was rather rough, and we were near the bar in Charleston harbor before the captain had commanced to notice the condition of his pilot and the danger of his boat. Although a sea captain, yet he was not well enough acquainted with the waters in which he then was to guide the helm. Just in the middle of this dilemma, there came to the captain a bright-looking negro who said that he had been piloting boats from Charleston to Savannah for the last 20 years: that he knew every shoal and sand-bar, and volunteered to take charge of the wheel. He was soon recognized by the mate and other boat hand as the celebrated Robert Small, the colored man who in the early part of the war ran the rebel steamer Planter out of Charleston harbor to the blockading fleet. Under his experienced and watchful eye we were piloted across the dangerous bar at St. Helena Sound, up the river to Beaufort, and then to Hilton Head and Savannah. It was dark before we crossed the bar into the Sound, and the lighthouses and other land marks that were destroyed during the war not having yet been replaced, it was no easy matter to guide a boat in such a place. But, notwithstanding the kindness of this hero, there were white men on board the boat base enough to insult him. After all the passengers and officers of the boat had partaken of their dinner, Small was sent to his. Before he (Small) reached the dining-room, there came to the table a man, a passenger, who had been drunk, and had just awoke from sleep and wanted some dinner. While this man was eating, Small came in and was given a seat at the foot of the table. Thence ensued a disgusting scene. No sooner had Small sat down than the white man jumped to his feet and demanded of Small why he, 'a d——d nigger', dared to sit down at the same table with him? Small was cool under such a gross insult, and merely replied that the captain of the boat had sent him there, and that he had eaten with white men who were gentlemen before. The white man continued his abusive language to such an extent that Small got up the table and returned to the pilot-house. Here he was followed by his incensed enemy, and threats made against his person. By this time Small's anger was raised, and he told his white opponent he was then unarmed, and wished to manage the vessel, but when he got to Beaufort he would give him a chance to fight the thing out on shore. This cooled the angry white man, and we all looked anxiously for Beaufort. About 10 o'clock Beaufort came, but our insulted and infuriated Caucasian had consulted friends and weighed matters over, and had come to the conclusion to remain in his bunk and nurse his choler by sleeping. So Mr. Small was allowed to proceed on his journey in peace. It is a notorious fact, too, that most of the passengers were against Small. When the steward sent for Small to come to his supper and he answered that he would not come, he was called an impudent 'nigger', and it was passed off with 'so much saved'. This is Southern gratitude. A nigger has no feelings—at least none that a white man is bound to respect. Why should he get insulted? This hatred to the negro is deeply rooted in the hearts of the white race of this country. Every step I take it looms up before my eyes like a bitter punishment. A woman, no matter what are her feelings, her position in society, or her dress, if she is black or yellow, or is tainted with the least visible drop of negro blood, is huddled down among the bags of corn, bales of hay, mules, and other freight of the boat, or in the car where the white man is sent to smoke and spit his filthy tobacco. If fortune, however, should place in her arms a child whose face is white, then no matter how black her face may be, she can sit amid her fellow creatures and enjoy their luxuries. As long as the black man remains a slave, a servant, a menial, he is allowed peace; but the moment he dares to raise himself to independence or equality he is set upon by his white brethren and hunted down to death or miserable slavery. It is a sad thing. How an enlightened people can allow such a wicked and shameful prejudice is to me a most singular trait of human nature. If we were a weak and ignorant people, then there might be some excuse; but according to the position we claim to have among civilized nations there is none. As I behold this strange society and ponder the unpleasant thought of our being a nation of pretenders and hypocrites, often occurs to my mind.

Beside this hatred to the negro because he is black, he is not allowed to remain in peace on any conditions. From the Potomac to the Mississippi, the first grumbling from the unreconstructed Southerner, is about the negro. After he satisfies his appetite on him then comes the Yankee. "The Yankee and the nigger—between the two the South is going to the devil," said a chivalric South Carolinian to me in Charleston. "Amen," said I, "if you don't reform."

President Johnson and the Liberals of Europe.

The people have been aroused during the past five years as they have never been before. They are standing on the verge of still greater events than those which have recently happened. Our late struggle for the nation's life is but the opening to more momentous scenes. It has given an impetus to the world which cannot be resisted. The Liberals of the Old World have been watching the political waters with deep and thrilling interest, and their eyes are now fastened on our President in a steadfast gaze that shows what an intense anxiety they feel in relation to passing events in this country.—No events have occured in their own country during the past generation which have so deeply interested them as those which have occurred here. They feel as if we were standing upon the threshold of some great epoch in the world's history.

Gasparin, Laboulaye, Martin, Smith, Bright and hosts of others are gazing across the ocean, and Kossuth who has rung more changes on the words Liberty and Equality than any living orator, and with an eloquence, too, far surpassing that of almost any statesman of ancient or modern times, is looking out of his retirement in the great metropolis of England, and watching the progress of events with an interest which he alone can feel. These patriots feel a deeper and broadest interest in our political affairs than we ourselves feel, if that were possible, for while our attention is absorbed by our own affairs, they are intent upon the spread of republican principles over the civilized world. Having lived under governments that oppress the people, they are more deeply impressed with the value of democratic institutions than we had been previous to the great rebellion. They know how the masses of Europe have been oppressed; they know how heavy the burdens are which aristocrats have fastened upon the people; they know how galling is the yoke put upon the necks of the working classes of the Old World; they know how the spirit of Liberty has been kept down by the ruling classes, and they know, too, that it is like "earth's central fires" which will break out at some time, although mountains press them down. No wonder that they look away to America and rejoice that the recent war has been the destruction of human bondage in this great Republic. That great moral stain has been removed, and these Liberals began to indulge the hope that our Republic would now become a power in the earth, and its influence felt in its remotest corners where civilization had begun its work. They knew and we know, that slavery has heretofore greatly circumscribed our influence on other nations.

When the Southern aristocrats and slaveholders commenced the war upon our government, the Liberals of Europe, free from the prejudices that clouded our judgments, and uninfluenced by that partizan feeling that always weakens statemanship, saw more clearly than we did that slavery must find a grave in every battlefield. Their view of the final results of the war, so far as slavery was concerned, was as clear as a sunbeam.—Not so ours; and yet there were some who ventured to prophesy that it would go down amid the clash of arms.

The great, all-absorbing question now is, who shall be our law-makers? Shall they be unrepentant traitors and rebels, or shall they be loyal men and true patriots? This question now agitates the public mind, and upon it hang momentous interests. Men whose hands have been stained with the best blood of the nation are now knocking at the doors of Congress for admission, and who shall judge of their qualifications for such a place of power? With the evidence now before the world, what is the opinion of the Liberals of Europe upon this question? How does it compare with our President's? Under all the circumstances, who has the least prejudice? Whose stand point is the more reliable? These questions are not difficult to answer.

It has been said that prejudice against classes and races of men often springs from the consciousness of injury inflicted upon them, and that necessitates the discovery of a natural or divine occasion for its existence, and kind slaveholders of the South, and the Bishop Hopkinses of the North, and Copperheads generally, have resorted to Holy Writ to prove that slavery is a divine institution. Tacitus says that human nature is compounded of such stuff that we are too prone to hate those we have injured.

And now is it strange that President Johnson should be laboring under such a prejudice? You may call it an honest prejudice if you will—nevertheless it is a prejudice, and a hard one to be got rid of. Our friends in Europe have not such prejudices to blind their judgments, and hence their opinions may be relied on. President Johnson was brought up among slaves, owned slaves, was no doubt a kind master, and for that very reason could not see all the evils of slavery.

He could say to himself, "I use my slaves well—they have enough to eat, drink, and wear—appear to be happy and contented, and seem to like me and I like them."—With such self-communings, how could he clearly see the enormity of holding human beings in bondage? And with such life-long sentiments, how can we expect him now to look at slavery in the same light in which the Liberals in Europe see it? It would be demanding too much of human nature, and yet his opinions and feelings may be wrong, and his judgment weakened. We think he is wrong in many of his positions, and his advice on some subjects ought not to be taken as sound or judicious. A voice comes to us across the ocean, saying in tones that cannot be misunderstood, "Beware how you admit those to the halls of legislation, and to the councils of your nation, who have waged a bloody war against your government and against republican principles."—That voice must be heeded, or the time may come when our country will take retrograde steps and lose that love of Liberty and that spirit of nationality which the war has awakened. And who would mourn over such an event more sadly than the Liberals of Europe? Let us not give them and the world such an occasion for weeping. We have bravely fought the battles of Liberty, and now let us not lose the legitimate fruits of that victory.—[Press.

In all the large cities of the North public meetings were held on the 22d. With scarcely a single exception it was agreed at these gatherings to sustain the President. If these popular demonstrations are an index to the will and sentiment of the people we may rest assured the Administration has a myriad of friends where it has one foe.—[Lancaster (S. C.) Ledger.

The above shows how blind the leaders of Southern opinion can be in relation to the real Northern mind. They are as much mistaken now as to the feeling and temper of the North as they were when, by a fatal blunder they precipitated themselves and their States into rebellion. Because a few so-called "Johnson" meetings, (but in reality democratic meetings) assembled on the 22d of February, and made a great noise (on the telegraph wires) about sustaining the President's policy, these former rebel organs at once jump at the conclusion that Mr. Johnson's policy has "a myriad of friends where it has one foe." Now if "Mr. Johnson's policy" is, as we regard it, simply to admit all Southern representatives into places in Congress, without other constitutional guarantees for the good behavior of their States than their own oaths, then we may say (in Southern style) that such a policy has not one supporter (outside of the "democracy") to a myriad of enemies.

AN AWFUL RECORD. We have received from Washington a copy of the official report of Capt. James Moor, Assistant Quartermaster of the U. S. Army, who was ordered by the Department to proceed to Andersonville, Georgia, for the purpose of marking the graves of deceased Union soldiers. His report occupies 250 closely printed pages, filled with the names of more than thirteen thousand brave Union soldiers who died in that horrible prison and whose graves could be identified. This is less than half of the actual number of deaths. The story of the terrible and unrelenting cruelty there practised by the direct permission, and even orders, of the Confederate authorities, will forever remain a damning and imperishable record of the "Barbarism of Slavery." The substance of slavery has been abolished by the war, which its supporters invoked; but its spirit still lives, and will again revive the cruel and infernal institution if the American people fail in their duty of maintaining that freedom for all the people which they have won at so terrible a test of blood and treasure. Let Andersonville be remembered.

IS ANOTHER REBELLION ON FOOT. John Minor Botts in another letter, appealing for protection for the Union men of Virginia, says that incontestible evidence of disloyalty of the press and Legislature is daily exhibited; that the people are being educated to look upon loyalty as crime to be punished; that the present legislature has recognized the late rebel legislature as a lawful government, and its acts consequently as binding. He declares that there is a wide spread conspiracy among the late rebel leaders to involve the country in a foreign war, and then, in case of invasion of the South by France, to take sides against the United States. Alluding to the manifest joy of disloyalists, North and South, over the veto of the President, he says "He does not think Mr. Johnson has intended, or means now to make any concessions to the Copperheads of the North or the Copperheads of the South. To the credit of human nature be it said, that our history has furnished not even in one instance such revolting turpitude and depravity as would be exhibited by his treaty or abandonment at such a time as this, and under such circumstances as now exist."

The President's "Policy" on the Connecticut Election.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1866.

The National Intelligencer of this morning, alluding to the visit here of Joseph E. English, Democratic candidate for Governor of Connecticut, says:

"We are gratified to learn that his prospects of success are every way encouraging. While here he has had several cordial and pleasant interviews with the President, who appreciates the friendship of Mr. English, and who, we have every reason to believe, would be highly pleased to hear of his success on the first Monday in April."

The same paper denies by authority that Secretary Welles has written a letter announcing his desire that General Hawley should be elected Governor of Connecticut, and says:

"The sound and practical view of Mr. Welles is that old issues have passed away with the period which saw their rise, agitation and fall, and that the great issue of the present day is upon the policy of the President to restore representation in Congress to the States in which rebellion lately existed."

This looks as though the Administration is determined to lend its influence in Connecticut to the Democratic rather than to the Republican candidate, as was intimated in this correspondence last week.

The probable action of the President in the Connecticut election has been the main topic of conversation here to-day, and there is much uncertainty on the subject. To-morrow all doubts will be removed, as Gen. Hawley is expected to arrive here, and he will call at once at the White House to ask whether the administration intends to sustain or to oppose him in the canvass.

The citizens of Connecticut resident here met at the Union League Rooms this evening, and perfected arrangements for going home to vote. Senator Foster made an eloquent speech, urging them to do all in their power to secure a Union triumph.

MR. SEWARD. The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette puts together several curious circumstances to support the theory that Mr. Seward is to be a candidate for the next Presidency, and is to be supported by the South. He says that in November last a prominent rebel officer and Southern politician, in a conversation with a Union officer from the West, declared that it was the matured policy of the South to carry their next Presidential election, to which end either Pennsylvania or New York must be secured. The latter was fixed upon as the more desirable. The man who could carry the State had been selected, and it was confessed that he was Mr. Seward. The writer adds: "Mr. Seward has stated privately, within a short time, that he is to be the next President, and he expects the support of the South." Some points are then given supposed to have a bearing on this matter, such as Mr. Seward's leniency to the rebels in the Fort Sumter affair; his early declarations in favor of the continuance of slavery, no matter what might be the result of the rebellion; and his recent course, including his announcement that the reconstruction policy of the administration was his. The whole story has some interest, but it will need strong evidence before it will make much impression on the people.—[Boston Jour.

GEN. BURNSIDE'S NOMINATION. A full report will be found on our fourth page of the proceedings of the Rhode Island Republican State Convention, holden at Providence yesterday. The chief feature was the nomination by acclamation of Maj. General Burnside for Governor of the State—one of the happiest hits as well as one of the best things that has been done within the domain of politics for a long time. We trust that it closes forever the breach which has so long been regretted in the loyal ranks of our sister State. Surely, with such a standard-bearer, all Rhode Island Republicans can now march shoulder to shoulder, keeping step to the music of the Union. It is even rumored that the Democrats—perhaps not wishing to expose the meagerness of their party at the polls, and perhaps animated by better motives—will, at their convention to-day, make no opposition to General Burnside's nomination, even if they do not expressly ratify it. The more the merrier. But whether the Democrats show so much good sense or not, Gen. Burnside may consider the matter all settled, and prepare to govern himself and Rhode Island accordingly.—Boston Journal.

AN AFFECTING SCENE. On Monday night Mr. McKean Buchanan and his daughter Virginia were announced for "Hamlet" at Terre Haute. Mrs. Buchanan was at the time lying very dangerously ill at the Terre Haute House of Neuralgia of the heart. After the first scene it was announced that Miss B. would not be able to appear as "Ophelia" on account of her mother's sickness, and if the play went on her part would have to be omitted. The audience desired the play to proceed, but when Mr. Buchanan appeared, and commenced the soliloquy "To be or not to be—" he was noticed to lack his usual fire and energy. He had not proceeded half a dozen lines when his faltering voice broke, and falling into a chair, he exclaimed—"My wife is dying—take your money—run down the curtain—I cannot play!" and the audience slowly and sadly dispersed. Mrs. Buchanan was dead when her husband reached the hotel.

MUSIC.

I have the pleasure of informing those who were members of SIGNOR BORRA'S Music Class in this city last season, and all who desire to secure a thorough education in Music in the shortest period possible, that he has consented to return, and resume the instruction of Music, under the celebrated "Chevé System," as soon as a sufficient class shall be formed; and it is desirable that the course should commence as soon as possible, for his engagements will make it necessary for him to return to New York early in the fall.

It may be said for the information of those unacquainted with the system of Music taught by Signor Borra, that it is considered much superior to the common mode of teaching, and his pupils obtain a knowledge of Music in a very short time comparatively; and also that the study of Music according to this system is very pleasant and healthy for children as young as ten years, as well as for adults.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

We are indebted to Mr. Horace Haynes, of the Air Line stage, for a splendid specimen of the noble trout which he taken in some of our eastern lakes. Its weight is about four pounds, and its beauty enough to delight the eye of others than the epicure or gourmand. The boys in the office think it altogether too fat a "take" for an editor.

REAL ESTATE. We would call attention to the advertisement in our columns by R. S. Prescott, Esq., of the Patrick Wall lands on Essex street. There are several parcels in all, and the two farms, called the Bicknell plans, are very valuable. Upon one of them is a most thoroughly-built and commodious barn, with stone underpinning, and an excellent cellar. The land is naturally rich, has been well cleaned, and thoroughly dressed. Any person desirous of a parcel of land within a short distance of the Kenduskeag Bridge, in a pleasant vicinity, would do well to examine.

BURGLARY.—The store of Jos. Forbes, merchant tailor, on Exchange street, was entered by a rear window on Tuesday night last, and robbed of about $300 worth of clothing. No clue to the perpetrators had been obtained yesterday, but the police will use every exertion to track them.

HOUSE IN BREWER. We call attention to the advertisement of Mr. T. T. Cates of a good cottage house and eight acres of land for sale in Brewer. The buildings are in good order, and will be sold low.

THE LADY'S FRIEND for April, is received in good season,—rather in advance of the other monthlies: It is an excellent number. The engravings and colored fashion plates are peculiarly fine—and the tales, sketches, poetry, music, &c., quite equal to those of any other magazine of the kind.—Deacon & Peterson, publishers, Philadelphia; $2 50 a year, single copies; two or more on lower terms. For sale in Bangor by Charles Hight.

STAMP DUTIES. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts have decided in two recent cases that the stamp duty imposed upon the writ or original process in civil cases supersedes the necessity of stamping any subsequent papers or documents in the case.—Hence all affidavits, depositions and certificates for use in the progress of the cause are free from stamp duty. In criminal proceedings no stamps are required. This exemption, the same Court have decided, embraces all papers in cases of appeal, &c, till the final judgment. P.

Messrs. Wheeler & Dynde:

At our annual election held to-day, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year—all Union men:

Town Clerk—E. R. Haynes.
Treasurer—E. R. Haynes.
Town Agent—Aretus Chapin.
Constable and Collector—Asa Steward.

Yours very Respectfully.

PEAT. The Saco Democrat thinks that measures will soon be taken to work the extensive beds of peat in that and many other towns of York County. The American Peat Company has new and patented machinery, by which the peat is prepared for the fire, at a cost of only $2,75 per ton.

—The Portland Argus states that efforts towards the establishment of a sugar refinery in that city have commenced, and the stock has already been liberally subscribed for.

ACCIDENT. An old gentleman named Woodsom, of Saco, was struck by the train last night, about a mile from Waterville.—He stepped off the track for the train to pass, but either slipped or was bewildered, and was hit. He was about seventy years of age. His recovery is doubtful.

—The Brunswick Telegraph says: "John Crowley, of Topsham, has recently been purchasing cattle at Brighton market, and bringing them here in the cars for slaughter, buying at lower rates than cattle are sold for in this region, and yet cattle are constantly going forward from Maine. We suppose the cattle brought here, originally came from the West."

—The Portland Advertiser says that one of the merchant captains of that city on his last voyage home from the West Indies, fell in with an abandoned schooner, loaded with cotton, &c. He took her in tow, but when off Barnegat was obliged to cut her adrift; first, however, securing a large lot of her cargo and a quantity of specie. The value of the property saved was over $9,000.

—We learn from the Belfast Age, that there was built in Stockton last year, five barks, four brigs, and three schooners; in all, 4,315 tons.

—The Waterville Mail is glad to learn that the several persons injured by the accident near the Continental House, last week, are all doing well, and that none of the injuries promise to be permanent.

DEATH OF A CONSUL. We regret to announce the death of Capt. Joseph Covell, of Jay, Consul at Prince Edward's Island. He died at Charlottetown, P. E. I., on the 7th inst. Capt. C. had been out there but a short period.—[Portland Adv.

—A meeting of the citizens of Bath, was held last Friday evening, when it was resolved to raise $50,000 toward the establishment of a new line of steamers between that city and Boston.

—There are twenty-seven chaplains in the Navy, of whom 11 are Episcopalians, 6 Methodists, 5 Presbyterians, 4 Baptists, and 1 Congregationalist.

—The Portland Press says the ladies of Congregational Society of Saccarappa recently held a levee from which they realized more than $250.

—We learn from the Portland Press that thieves made an attempt Friday night, to break into the store of E. M. Patten of that city, but were frightened off.

—Madame Murat, of Tallahasse, Florida, widow of the late Col. Archie Murat, and first cousin to the Emperor of France, has received as a gift from Louis Napoleon a life annuity of 50,000 francs, in consideration of her losses by the results of the war.

—The Pithole (Pa.) Record states that an oil borer in that place, a few days since, struck a crevice in the rock, and on using the sand pump, brought to the surface a live fish, about four inches long, of a brown color, and having no eyes. It was brought from a depth of 615 feet, and when placed in water and exposed to the atmosphere, expired in a few hours.

—The French iron-clad Achilles, which has been afloat ten months, and is of 6079 tons burthen and 680 feet long, has not leaked a wineglassful of water since she was launched. Such perfect construction is a marvel in ship-building.

—The English language is a mixture of a number of languages, Saxon, Danish, French, Latin and others. But this is no disparagement to the language, but rather gives it superior advantages, as these additions have tended to enrich it, so that it is said to be the most copious and significant language in Europe, if not in the world.

—Dialogue in the Western Islands of Scotland:

"How long is this loch?"

"It will be about twanty mile."

"Twenty miles! surely it cannot be so much."

"Maybe it will be twelve."

"It really doesn't seem more than four."

"Indeed, I'm thinking yon're right."

"Really, you seem to know nothing about the matter."

"Troth, canna say I do."

—We do not absolutely know what is good or bad fortune.

The Northern "democratic" papers continue to denominate Fort Lafayette a "bastile," because Southern rebels and Northern traitors were imprisoned therein during the war.

A HARD GRIND. The Lewiston Journal tells of a lean and hungry farmer's boy who was one day sent off about three miles to a mill with a large lot of grain to be ground. Unluckily for him there was a quantity in before he got there, so it was late in the afternoon before the miller got to work upon Ide's lot. The water was low, consequently the mill-stones revolved rather slowly. Ide was hungry, and his inner man got uproarious, and looking up to the miller (Uncle Reuben) he says, "Uncle Reub, I can eat that meal faster than you grind it." "Ah, my boy," says Uncle Reuben, "how long could you do it?" "Why, till I starved to death," said Ide. Uncle Reuben says that he never got such a shot before.

The Great Worm Remedy.
IT has been said by more than one eminent physician that more sickness among children is the result of Pin Worms than all other causes:—that worms imitate the symptoms of most other diseases, often producing fatal results, without being suspected. From this cause of so much sickness, every family may have an effectual remedy, by procuring a bottle of Dr. E. G. Gould's Pin Worm Syrup.
It will remove ordinary stomach worms oftener than any of the vermifuges in the market, and for Pin Worms it has no equal. It will relieve children or adults from all annoyance in twenty-four hours, and effect an entire cure when taken according to directions. It is a mild cathartic, and can be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. It improves the health by removing all impurities from the system.

THE HUSBAND'S PRESENT.

[Concluded.]

'My employer is going to put me on job-work, sir; and as soon as I get my hand in I can easily make from twelve to fourteen dollars a week.'

'And how much will it take to support your family?'

'As soon as I get cleared up, I can easily get along with five or six dollars a week.'

'Then you might be able to save about four hundred dollars a year?'

'I mean to do that, sir.'

A few moments Captain Walker gazed into the face of his visitor, and then he asked:

'Have you pledged yourself yet?'

'Before God and in my heart I have, but one of my errands here is to get you to write me a pledge, and have it made to my wife and children.'

Captain Walker sat down to his table and wrote out the required pledge, and then, in a trembling, but bold hand, Thomas Wilkins signed it.

'Wilkins,' said the old man, as he took his visitor by the hand, 'I have watched well your countenance, and weighed your words, I know you speak the truth. When I bought the cottage from your creditors six years ago I paid them one thousand dollars for it. It has not been harmed, and is as good as it was then. Most of the time I have received good rent for it. Now, sir, you shall have it for just what I paid for it, and each month you shall pay me such a sum as you can conveniently spare, till it is all paid. I will ask you for no rent, nor a cent of interest. You shall have a deed of the estate, and in return I will take but a single note and mortgage upon which you can have your own time.'

Thomas Wilkins tried to thank the old man for his kindness, but he only sank back into his chair and wept like a child; and while he sat with his face buried in his hands, the old man slipped from the room. And when at length he returned, he bore in his hand a neatly covered basket.

'Come, come,' the captain exclaimed, 'cheer up, my friend. Here are some titbits for your wife and children—take them home, and believe me, Wilkins, if you feel half as happy in receiving my favor as I do in bestowing it, you are happy indeed!'

'Oh, God! God will bless you for this, sir!' exclaimed the kindness-stricken man; 'and if I betray your confidence, may I die on the instant!'

'Stick to the pledge, Wilkins, and I will take care of the rest,' said the old captain to his friend, as he took the basket. 'If you have time to-morrow, call on me, and I will arrange the papers.'

As Thomas Wilkins once more entered the streets his tread was light and easy. A bright light of joyousness shone in every feature, and as he wended his way homeward, he felt, in every avenue of his soul, that he was once more a man.

The gloomy shades that ushered in the night of the 31st of December had fallen over the snow-clad earth. Within the miserable dwelling of Mrs. Wilkins, there was more of comfort than we found when we first visited her, but yet nothing had been added to the furniture of the place. For the last six days her husband had come home every evening, and gone away before daylight every morning, and, during that time, she knew that he had not drank any intoxicating beverage, for already his face had begun to assume the stamp of its former manhood, and every word that he had spoken had been kind and affectionate. To his children he had brought new shoes and warm clothing, and to herself he had given such things as she stood in immediate need of; but yet, with all this, he had been, taciturn and thoughtful, showing a dislike to all questions, and only speaking such words as were necessary. The poor, devoted, loving wife began to hope. And why should she not? For six years her husband had not been thus before. One week before she had dreaded his approach; but now she found herself waiting for him with all the anxiety of former years. Should all this be broken; should this new charm be swept away? Eight o'clock came, and so did nine and ten, and yet her husband came not!

'Mother,' said little Charles, just as the clock struck ten, seeming to have awakened from a dreamy slumber, 'isn't this the last night of the old year?'

'Yes, my son.'

'And do you know what I've been dreaming, near mother? I dreamed that father had brought us a New Year's present, just the same as he used to. But he won't, will he? He is too poor now!'

'No, my dear, we shall have no other presents than food; and even for that we must thank dear father. There, lay your head in my lap again.'

The boy laid his curly head once more in his mother's lap, and with fearful eyes she gazed upon his innocent form.

The clock struck eleven! The poor wife was on her tireless watch! But hardly had the sound of the last stroke died away, ere the snow-crust gave back the sound of a footfall, and in a moment more her husband entered. With a trembling fear she raised her eyes to his face, and a wild thrill of joy went to her heart, as she saw that all was open and bold—only those manly features looked more joyous, more proud than ever.

'Lizzie,' said he, in mild, kind accents, 'I am late to-night, but business has detained me; and now I have a favor to ask of you.'

'Name it, dear Thomas, and you shall not ask a second time,' cried the wife, as she laid her hand confidently upon her husband's arm.

'And you will ask me no questions?' continued Wilkins.

'No, I will not.'

'Then,' continued the husband, as he bent over and imprinted a kiss upon his wife's brow, 'I want you to dress our children for a walk, and you shall accompany us. The night is calm and tranquil, and the snow is well trodden—'

'But—'

'Ah, no questions! Remember your promise.'

Lizzie Wilkins knew not what all this meant, nor did she think or care; for any thing which could please her husband she would have done with pleasure even though it had wrenched her very heart-strings. In a short time the two children were ready; then Mrs. Wilkins put on such articles of dress as she could command, and soon they were in the road. The moon shone brightly the stars peeped down upon the earth, and they seemed to smile upon the travelers from their twinkling eyes of light. Wilkins led the way, and silently his children followed. Several times the wife gazed up into the face of her husband, but from the strange expression that rested there, she could make out nothing that served to satisfy her.

At length a slight turn in the road brought them suddenly upon the pretty white cottage. Three years before they had been so happy as they approached the spot. The snow from yard had been shoveled away, and a path led up to the piazza. Wilkins opened the gate—his wife, trembling, followed, but where she knew not. Then her husband opened a door, and in the entry met the smiling face of Captain Walker. He ushered them into the parlor, where a warm fire glowed in the grate, and where everything looked neat and comfortable. Wilkins turned his gaze upon the old man. Upon her husband. Upon Sandy, that was between the poor man, and the fire. Are was none of that comfort which should have been expected. They met, rather as friends and neighbors. What could it mean?

Hark! the clock strikes twelve! The old year is gone; a new, a bright-winged circle is about to commence its flight over the earth.

Thomas Wilkins took the hand of his wife within his own, and then drawing from his bosom a paper, he placed it in her hand, remarking as he did so:

'Lizzie, this is your husband's present for the new year.'

The wife took the paper and opened it. She realized its contents at a glance, but she could not read it word for word, for the streaming tears of a wild, frantic joy would not let her. With a quick, nervous movement she placed the priceless pledge next her bosom, and then, with a low murmur, like the gentle whispering of some Heaven-bound angel, she fell, half fainting, into her husband's arms.

'Look up, look up, my own dear wife,' uttered the redeemed man, 'look up and smile upon your husband; and you, too, my children, gather about your father—for a husband and a father henceforth I will ever be. Look up, my wife. There—now, Lizzie, feel proud of me, for we stand within our own house! Yes, this cottage is once more our own, and nothing but death shall take us hence. Our good, kind friend here will explain it all; O, Lizzie, if there be happiness on earth, it shall henceforth be ours! Let the past be forgotten, and with this, the dawning of the new year, let us commence to live in the future.'

Gently the husband and wife sank upon their knees, clasped in each other's arms, and clinging joyfully to them, knelt their conscious happy children. A prayer from the husband's lips winged its way to the Throne of Grace; and, with the tears trickling down his aged face, old Captain Walker responded a heart-felt 'Amen.'

* * * * *

Five years have passed since that happy moment. Thomas Wilkins has cleared his pretty cottage from all incumbrances, and a happier or more respected family does not exist. And Lizzie, that gentle, confiding wife, as she takes that simple paper from the drawer, and gazes again and again on the magic pledge it bears, weeps tears of joy anew. Were all the wealth of the Indies poured out in one glittering, blinding pile at her feet, and all the honors of the world added thereto, she would not, for the whole countless sum, give in exchange one single word from that pledge which constituted her husband's present.

For the Speedy and Permanent Cure of Liver Complaints, Scrofula or King's Evil, Eruptions, and all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches and Boils; Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains in the Bones, Side and Head; for the various Weaknesses to which Females are liable; Dyspepsia, Debility, Emaciation, Dropsy, and all diseases resulting from or in an impure state of the Blood.

It is invaluable to Nervous Sufferers, and a positive cure for Palsy arising from the abuse of Mercury or Lead.

It is a Tonic as well as an Alterative, and a sure protection from attacks that originate in change of climate, season or life.

LIVER COMPLAINTS and their combined symptoms, such as Lumbago, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Bilious Eruptions, &c. When caused by Scrofula taint, this compound is a most effectual remedy.

DYSPEPSIA or INDIGESTION, is often caused by Scrofula, which deranges the stomach, and renders it unhealthy. Indigestion is not always caused by Scrofula, when it is, this Sarsaparilla Compound is a ready cure.

NEURALGIA, HEADACHE and various disorders of the nervous system frequently arise from a low state of the constitutional health, and are much relieved and often cured by this powerful remedy.

ERYSIPELAS, Boils, Tumors, or Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Sores, &c. Moderate doses three times a day will usually effect the cure of the above complaints, but often requires considerable time.

Price one dollar per bottle. Six bottles for five dollars.

DR. KNIGHTS'

Oriental Hair Restorer.

After a long series of experiments, this article, as it is now offered to the public, is believed to be the most perfect of its kind which science has ever devised. No pains have been spared to produce what has so long been demanded by thousands, who, from sickness or other causes, have become prematurely gray; and others, who, in the zero and yellow leaf of life, would retain, as far as possible, the semblance of youth. Dr. KNIGHTS' ORIENTAL HAIR RESTORER, after a few applications, restores grey or faded hair to its original color, and is the only preparation of the kind upon which the public can place any reliance. It has never been known to fail in a single instance, and is totally unlike the thousand and one so-called Hair Restorers, by which so many have been egregiously deceived.

It is delightfully perfumed, gives the hair a rich and glossy appearance, promotes its luxuriant growth, and will not soil the skin, scalp, or any article of apparel.

PRICE 75 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

Prepared by

E. R. KNIGHTS, Chemist, Melrose, Mass.

Notice to the Public.

In the year 1846, the writer embarked in business in the city of Philadelphia, and engaged, made several experiments, and adopted the most desirable mode of introducing his goods. My efforts being successful—the plan proved and used by the Medical Faculty—I felt desirous of placing them before the public. Hesitated for some time before commencing the use of newspaper advertising, for many prejudices existed in the minds of many against the use of patent medicines or nostrums, but the advice of friends and those who had used my goods at last prevailed. My hesitation was overcome.

After 18 years' exertion, commencing in a small way, the popularity of my articles extended to all parts of the United States, and I received orders for them from foreign countries—and this in the face of the most bitter opposition. Every means has been resorted to by unprincipled dealers to induce persons to believe that my articles have been known—such as selling their own articles at less prices, claiming to be the inventors, and even copying my advertisements—but I am happy to state that all the many who have tried me have been so well satisfied with my articles, that none have been induced to change.

MY OBJECT

In this notice is to make myself known to the public and respectable dealers, having now, after years' exertions, that the Druggists can place reliance in my articles, and that they will not be damaged by spurious ones.

Knowing that many may read this who are unacquainted with me, I refer to those in my native city, and those who have known me in all parts of the world.

"Being personally acquainted with Mr. H. F. Helmbold, it affords me pleasure to state that I have been most favorably impressed with the character, integrity, and gratified at his success."

WM. WILHELMY,

Firm of Powers & Weightman,

Ninth and Brown Streets, Philadelphia.

(Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.)

"When on a visit to the city of New York a few days since, I was induced to call on Mr. H. T. Helmbold, and townsman, Mr. H. F. Helmbold, Druggist, Broadway, New York. His store is a model of perfect Gem—the handsomest of any I have seen—and had the pleasure of viewing, and examining 34 feet front, five stories in height, and 100 feet deep. It indeed affords me much pleasure to know that he has been so successful, as it is ample evidence of the merit of his preparations, the whole business experience we have had in regard to the success of any article without advertising merely bringing the name or article into notice."

(Boston Herald.)

"We do not like to advertise worthless articles calculated to deceive mankind, but when we see an advertiser like Mr. Helmbold, who we have known for years, gradually extending his business from year to year until he is the largest advertiser in the United States, we are satisfied that the statements in regard to his preparations are correct."

The writer reluctantly inserts this advertisement, would not do so were he not a stranger to fame, and concludes by stating the names of his preparations and the diseases for which they have been used, and many thousands with complete success.
